Introduction

Backpacking is a great way to unplug, immerse yourself in nature, and challenge yourself both physically and mentally. While there's a lot of natural beauty to take in, experienced backpackers know that no matter how spectacular the scenery is, much of the day is spent thinking about the next meal!

After a long day on the trail, one of the best things is taking off your pack, finding a comfortable spot to sit, and enjoying a hot dinner! This is why it's so important to find a meal that will end your day on a happy and satisfying note.

Figuring out what food to pack can be a challenge all on its own! Since you'll be carrying all of it on your back, backpacking food needs to strike the right balance between taste, nutrition, weight, ease of preparation, and cost.

Instead of purchasing commercially prepared meals, making your own dehydrated or freeze-dried meals for backpacking might be the way to go. Here are some benefits of DIY backpacking meals.

1. Limitless meal options

Very few things cannot be dehydrated or freeze-dried, so your options for meals are almost limitless.

2. Control over ingredients to meet dietary needs

Food intolerances can range from mild to severe. Using a dehydrator or freeze-dryer to prep your own meals allows you to customize your meals to know exactly what's going in the bags. This allows you to branch out far beyond the limited number of commercially packaged meals available that do not contain the ingredients you need to avoid.

3. Reduced Cost

You can dehydrate or freeze-dry your own food and assemble all of your meals, including trail snacks for about $5 per day. Commercially prepared backpacking meals from your favorite outdoor retail store can easily cost between $10 and $15 per meal. If you eat two prepared meals per day, that will add up to $20 to $30 per day. A single week-long backpacking adventure can easily pay for the cost of a basic food dehydrator from the savings of making your own food versus commercially prepared meals.

Homemade trail meals are easy to prepare and memorably delicious. This guide will provide you with over 270 recipes for making your own backpacking meals, snacks, desserts, and drinks along with complete instructions on how to pack the meals, rehydrate them, and cook the meals on the trail with nothing more than a small pot, stove, and a spoon. As an extra benefit, introduce unlimited variations in your menu by interchanging different meats and vegetables in these recipes. Read the section on Dehydrating vs. Freeze-Drying Backpacking Meals to help you decide which technique might be best for you and your budget.

So, whether you like to be fancy with your food or keep it simple, the following recipes can be your path to better eating and enjoyment of your outdoor experience. Enjoy your wanderings!

Breakfast

Backcountry Fried Rice

Servings: 2

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
1	cup	Freeze dried veggies (peas, onions, carrots, red bell pepper)
1		chicken or vegetable bouillon cube
1/2	tsp	brown sugar
1/2	tsp	ground ginger
1/4	tsp	garlic powder
2	Tbsp.	Powdered butter
1	cup	Instant brown rice
2/3	cup	Freeze dried eggs
2	packets	Soy sauce
		Salt and pepper to taste

At Home: Put freeze dried eggs in a small Ziploc bag. In a separate small Ziploc bag, put the instant brown rice. In a third bag put the vegetables and spices. Place all three bags along with the soy sauce packets in a larger Ziploc bag.

On the Trail: Mix the freeze dried eggs with 5 ounces plus 2 teaspoons water in your cookpot and stir to blend. Place the cookpot on your stove over low heat and scramble, stirring frequently so the egg doesn't stick to the bottom. Once cooked, remove and set aside. Add 2 cups water and the contents of the veggies and spices bag to the pot. Bring to a boil, then reduce the heat and simmer until the veggies are soft, about 5 minutes. Add instant rice, stir, and remove the pot from the heat and cover. Let sit for 5 minutes. Return the egg to the pot and stir to combine and re-warm the eggs.

Banana Chocolate Walnut Granola Bars

Servings: 12 bars

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
3	Tbsp.	Coconut oil, plus more for greasing the pan
2/3	cup	Honey

2	cups	Rolled oats
1	cup	Crispy rice cereal
1	cup	Walnuts
1	cup	Banana chips
1	cup	Chocolate chip

At Home: Preheat the oven to 300 degrees F. Grease a 9 by 13 inch baking pan with coconut oil. In a mixing bowl, combine the oats, crispy rice cereal, walnuts, and banana chips. Place the coconut oil, honey, brown sugar, salt and vanilla in a small pot and bring to a boil over medium heat. Boil for about a minute and then pour over the oatmeal mixture. Stir well, add the chocolate chips, and stir again. Pour the mixture into the prepared baking pan. With wet fingers, press the mixture into the pan so that the top is even. Bake for 30 minutes. The bars should be golden brown. Let cool completely and cut into bars. Let cool for about 15 minutes, and then turn out onto a cutting board. Slice, enjoy a warm piece with butter, and cover the rest with foil or in a food storage container for your trip.

Trail Snacks

Bacon Date Bites

Servings: 64 (1-inch) bites

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
1	lb.	Dried dates, pitted
1	lb.	Bacon, cooked, extra grease patted off, cooled, and crumbled
1	tsp.	Toasted sesame oil
2	tsp.	Sesame seeds

At Home: Line an 8 x 8-inch baking pan with parchment or wax paper, leaving about a 1-inch overhang on at least 2 sides. Place the dates in a food processor fitted with the blade attachment and pulse a few times to break them up. If necessary, separate the dates if they clump together. Add the bacon and sesame oil, then process until the ingredients break down, then clump together into a ball, about 1 minute. Transfer the mixture to the prepared baking pan. Use another piece of parchment or wax paper to press it into the pan and form an even layer. Uncover, then sprinkle the top with the sesame seeds. Freeze for 30 to 40 minutes. Pull up on the excess parchment or wax paper to remove the slab from the pan and place on a cutting board. Cut into 1-inch squares and store in an airtight container in the fridge or freezer until you're ready to enjoy. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

Cherry Garcia Energy Bites

Servings: 9 bites

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
1/2	cup	Almonds
1/2	cup	Medjool dates, pitted and chopped
1/4	cup	Dried tart cherries
1/4	cup	Shredded coconut
2	Tbsp.	Flax or pumpkin seeds
2	Tbsp.	Mini dark chocolate chips (1/2 oz.)
1	pinch	Salt
1	tsp.	Vanilla extract

At Home: Soak the almonds in water for 20 minutes. If your dates are on the dry side, you may want to soak them for a few minutes as well. Drain and rinse, then add to the bowl of a food processor along with the pitted dates, cherries, coconut, hemp seeds, chocolate, and salt. Give the ingredients a whirr in the food processor until the mix becomes a crumbly dough. You may need to scrape down the sides a few times. Scoop out enough dough to roll into a 1 1/2" ball, pressing the mix together between your palms to help it stick together, then rolling into a ball. Repeat with the rest of the dough to make 9 balls. Store in an airtight container in the fridge or freezer until ready to eat. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

Chewy Chocolate Cherry Granola Bar

Servings: 6 bars

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
6		Dates pitted and roughly chopped
1/2	cup	Water
1/4	cup	Maple syrup
2	Tbsp.	Chia seeds
1	tsp.	Vanilla extract
1/4	tsp.	Salt
2	cups	Rolled oats
1/4	cup	Tart dried cherries or cranberries
1/4	cup	Mini dark chocolate chips

At Home: Preheat oven to 350°F. Place the dates, water, maple syrup, chia seeds, vanilla, cherries (or cranberries) and salt into the bowl of your food processor. Let it all soak for 5 minutes, then process until fairly smooth (it's OK to have some pieces of dates and cherries remaining, but you don't want any big chunks). Toast oats over medium heat in a heavy bottomed skillet until golden brown, about 5 minutes. Stir frequently to ensure even toasting and prevent them from burning. In a medium mixing bowl, add the oats, cherries (or cranberries), dark chocolate and the date mixture. Mix well with a spoon until all the oats are completely covered in the date mixture. Line a 9 x 5 loaf pan with parchment paper. Spread the mixture evenly into the pan, then press down on it to really compact it (we used the bottom of a glass for this). Bake for 20 minutes. Cool completely, then remove from the pan and cut into 6 bars. Store the bars in an airtight container in the fridge or freezer until you're ready to enjoy. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

Chewy Fruit and Nut Granola Bars

Servings: 10 bars

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
1/4	cup	Canola oil
1/3	cup	Maple syrup
1 1/2	cups	Rolled oats
1/2	cup	Shredded unsweetened coconut
1/2	cup	Sliced almonds
1/4	cup	Semi-sweet chocolate chips
1/4	cup	Raisins
1/4	cup	Dried cranberries
1/4	cup	Salted peanuts

At Home: Preheat the oven to 350°F. Line an 8" x 8" square pan with parchment paper. In a bowl mix together the oats, coconut, almonds, chocolate chips, raisins, cranberries and peanuts. Pour in the oil and maple syrup and mix until the ingredients are well coated. Add the granola mixture to the pan and press into the corners using a wooden spoon. Bake until the granola bars have turned golden brown on top, about 30 minutes. Allow the pan of granola bars to cool completely then refrigerate until set. Remove the parchment from the pan and slice the granola into 8 large bars or 16 squares. Store the bars in an airtight container in the fridge or freezer until you're ready to enjoy. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

Chocolate Chip Cookie Dough Energy Bars

Servings: 10-12

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
1 1/2	cups	Cashews
1	cup	Pitted Medjool dates, tightly packed
1	tsp.	Pure vanilla extract
1 to 2	tsp.	Water, if needed
1/4	tsp.	Fine sea salt
3	Tbsp.	Mini chocolate chips (regular size chips work too)

At Home: Add cashews into a food processor and process for 3 to 4 seconds, until a coarse meal forms. Add in the pitted dates and vanilla. Process until the mixture comes together, for about 15 seconds, or longer if needed. The mixture should stick together easily when you squeeze it between your fingers. If it doesn't stick or it's still a bit crumbly, add a very small amount of water (1 teaspoon at a time) and process it again. Add the salt and the chocolate chips and process briefly to combine. Line a loaf pan or an 8-inch square pan with a piece of parchment paper so that there's overhang to lift out the bars after freezing. Scoop the mixture into the pan and smooth out with your hand until it is level. Push down firmly all over the mixture. The more you pack it down the better the bars will hold together. Roll out with a pastry roller if you have one. Freeze, uncovered, for at least 15 to 20 minutes and then slice into bars. Wrap bars in plastic wrap or aluminum foil and store in an airtight container in the fridge or freezer. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

1	Tbsp.	Maple syrup
1	tsp.	Ground cinnamon
1/8	tsp.	Allspice
2	Tbsp.	Water, more if needed

At Home: Soak the dates in hot water for 10 minutes. Add all of the ingredients to a food processor or high speed blender and blend until the mixture turns into a paste or dough like consistency. Scoop out heaping tablespoons of the mixture and roll into balls. Store the energy bites in an airtight container in the refrigerator or freezer. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

Espresso Date Balls

Servings: 15 balls

2	Tbsp.	Almond butter (or peanut butter)
2	tsp.	Espresso powder
1/4	tsp.	Salt
1	Tbsp.	Maple syrup

At Home: Add all ingredients except maple syrup to a food processor. Blend on high for 1 to 3 minutes, stopping to scrape down the sides as needed. Once the mixture is starting to look like fine crumbs, add maple syrup. Blend for another minute, until the whole mixture starts to feel cohesive. You can keep blending if you prefer your energy balls with a smoother consistency, or stop here if you like them a little crunchier. Roll the dough into 1 to 2 Tbsp.-size balls and place on a plate or baking sheet so that none are touching. Put energy balls in the freezer for at least an hour, then remove them from the baking sheet and store in a sealed container in the freezer. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

Fruit Roll-Ups

Servings: 8

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
3	cups	Fruit (see notes)
1	Tbsp.	Sugar or to taste
1/2		Lemon, juiced

At Home: Thaw the fruit if frozen. Add fruit, lemon juice, and sugar to a blender and blend until smooth. Lightly oil your dehydrator fruit leather trays. Divide the fruit puree evenly across the trays - we used 4 trays for ours, but depending on your tray's surface area yours may require more or fewer trays. The puree should be spread out in an even, 1/4" layer. Set your dehydrator to 135°F and dehydrate 4-6 hours. Remove the trays from the dehydrator and carefully peel the leather off the trays. Cut the cooled fruit leather into 1-inch strips using kitchen scissors or a pizza cutter. Roll the fruit leather up with a strip of parchment paper, and secure with tape or a sticker. Keep homemade fruit-roll ups in an airtight container in the fridge or freezer until you're ready to enjoy. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

Notes: Use a combination of berries, mango, peaches, or kiwi to make fruit roll-ups (i.e. 2 cups of strawberries and 1 cup of blackberries). Do not use fruit that browns easily like apples, pears, or bananas. Avoid using melons as they have a high water content. You can use up to 1 cup of applesauce, mixed with other varieties of fruit if desired. You can use frozen fruit. Defrost the fruit in the refrigerator and then strain well to remove excess moisture. Pat dry and then proceed with the recipe.

At Home: Preheat oven to 350°F. Line a 9-inch square baking pan with parchment paper with enough overhang on the sides to easily remove the bars from the pan. Set aside. In a large bowl or in the bowl of your stand mixer, mash the bananas. On medium speed, beat or whisk in the remaining ingredients in the order listed. Batter will be a little thick, but still pourable. Pour/spoon the mixture evenly into the prepared pan and bake for 25-28 minutes or until the center is set (it will still look relatively soft!). Remove from the oven and cool in the pan at room temperature for 30-60 minutes. After that, place the pan in the refrigerator for 1 hour until chilled. 1/4	tsp.	Ground black pepper
1/2 to 1	Tbsp.	Olive oil

At Home: Preheat oven to 400°F. Lightly spray a baking sheet with cooking oil (olive oil or avocado oil) or cooking spray. Set aside. Drain and rinse the chickpeas. Then, put the chickpeas on a paper-towel lined plate and pat dry. If necessary, discard wet paper towels and use fresh ones. Let the chickpeas dry on the paper towels until they are no longer wet. In a small bowl, mix together cumin, paprika, garlic powder, sea salt, onion powder and pepper. Set aside. Transfer the rinsed and thoroughly dried chickpeas to the prepared baking sheet. Bake in the preheated oven for 15 minutes "naked" – meaning without any oil or spices. After 15 minutes, remove the chickpeas from the oven and drizzle 1/2 tablespoon olive oil over the chickpeas, stirring until evenly coated. If necessary, slowly add more olive oil (up to 1 tablespoon) until all the chickpeas are lightly coated. Once the chickpeas are coated in oil, add the spice mixture and stir until evenly distributed. Bake at 400°F for 10 additional minutes, then remove from the oven and stir the chickpeas. Return the stirred chickpeas to the oven and bake them for an additional 5-10 minutes, until desired crispiness is achieved (a total of 30-35 minutes of baking). Turn off oven and open the oven door so it's slightly ajar. Let the chickpeas cool in the oven to achieve maximum crispiness. Store these roasted chickpeas in an airtight container at room temperature. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail. Roasted chickpeas should be eaten as soon as possible.

Salted Caramel Nut Roll

Servings: 8

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
7	oz.	Marshmallow creme
1/2	tsp.	Almond extract
3	cups	Confectioners' sugar
2 1/4	cups	Caramel bits, approximately 1 1/2 bags (11 ounces each)
6	Tbsp.	Heavy cream
16	oz.	Salted peanuts, approximately 3 1/2 cups

At Home: In a large bowl, combine the marshmallow creme, extract, and confectioners' sugar. The nougat mixture will be slightly crumbly, but it will stick once packed together. Form the mixture into a hockey puck, or disc shape. Cut the mixture into 8 pieces (like cutting a pie). Roll each piece into a cylindrical shape (roughly the size of a candy bar.) Wrap each cylinder in parchment paper and place them in the freezer for at least 2 hours. When ready, melt caramel bits in the microwave for 2 to 2½ minutes, stirring at 30-second intervals, until completely melted. Add the heavy cream and stir until combined. Place salted peanuts onto a baking sheet. Remove the rolls from the freezer. Working one at a time, dip the roll into the caramel, coating it completely. Try not to use your fingers! This gets really messy if you do; you can use two forks to dip and remove. Place the caramel-covered roll onto the sheet of salted nuts and cover it completely with nuts. Transfer the nut-covered roll onto parchment paper. Repeat with the remaining rolls. Store the nut rolls in an airtight container in the fridge or freezer until you're ready to enjoy. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

Salted Nut Roll Bars

Servings: 16

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
16	oz.	Dry roasted salted peanuts, divided
4	Tbsp.	Unsalted butter
14	oz.	Sweetened condensed milk
10	oz.	Peanut butter chips
4	cups	Mini marshmallows

At Home: Line 9 x 13 baking pan with parchment paper. Spray with non-stick cooking spray. Add half the peanuts. Set aside. In a large pot over medium heat add butter and melt. Add sweetened condensed milk and stir till completely combined. Add peanut butter chips and continue to stir till melted. Stir in marshmallows and cook till puffy. About a minute. Remove from heat and pour into baking pan. Working quickly spread out. Top with remaining peanuts. Press down gently. Store the salted nut roll bars in an airtight container in the refrigerator or freezer until you're ready to enjoy. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

S'mores Granola Bar

Servings: 6 bars

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
6		Dates pitted and roughly chopped
1/2	cup	Water
1/4	cup	Maple syrup
2	Tbsp.	Chia seeds
1/4	tsp.	Salt
1	cup	Rolled oats
1	cup	Crushed graham crackers about 10 sheets
1/2	cup	Mini marshmallows
6	Tbsp.	Mini dark chocolate chips
1	tsp.	Coconut oil (optional if greasing pan)

At Home: Preheat oven to 350°F (177°C). Place the dates, water, maple syrup, chia seeds, and salt into the bowl of your food processor. Let it all soak for 5 minutes, then process until fairly smooth (it's OK to have some pieces of dates remaining, but you don't want any big chunks). Toast oats over medium heat in a heavy bottomed skillet until golden brown, about 5 minutes. Stir frequently to ensure even toasting and prevent them from burning. In a medium mixing bowl, add the oats, graham crackers, marshmallows, dark chocolate and the date mixture. Mix well with a spoon until all the dry ingredients are completely covered in the date mixture. Line a 8.5" x 4.5" loaf pan with parchment paper, or grease the pan with coconut oil or butter. Spread the mixture evenly into the pan, then press down on it to really compact it (I used the bottom of a glass for this). Bake for 20 minutes. Cool completely, then remove from the pan and cut into 6 bars. Store the bars in an airtight container in the fridge or freezer until you're ready to enjoy. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

Sunshine Bars

Servings: 6

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
1	cup	Dried, unsweetened pineapple
1/3	cup	Warm water (for soaking fruit)
1	cup	Cashews
1/4	cup	Unsweetened coconut flakes
1/2	tsp.	Lemon zest
1/2	tsp.	Pure vanilla extract
1	dash	Salt

At Home: Soak the dried fruit in warm water for 5-10 minutes. Meanwhile, gather remaining ingredients and pour into a food processor. Drain the fruit and add to the food processor. Process for 30-60 seconds or until the mixture sticks together when pinched with your fingers. Line a loaf pan or an 8-inch square pan with a piece of parchment paper so that there's overhang to lift out the bars after chilling. Pour into a loaf pan and press firmly into bars with a spatula. Chill for 10 minutes and then cut into 6 bars. Store the bars in an airtight container in the fridge or freezer until you're ready to enjoy. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

At Home: Place all ingredients in a food processor and process about 1 minute, or until ingredients are in small, relatively uniform crumbles. Form mixture into balls or bars. Store the bliss balls in an airtight container in the fridge or freezer until you're ready to enjoy. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

Trail Mix Bliss Balls

10		Dates, pitted and soaked in water for 10 minutes
1/4	cup	Cashews
3	Tbsp.	Roasted pepitas (pumpkin seeds)

At Home: In a food processor, process the dates and cashews until a sticky dough forms. Divide the dough into 8 equal parts and roll between your palms to create a ball. Spread the pepitas and cranberries on a flat surface (like a cutting board or plate) and roll the balls over them to coat. Store the bliss balls in an airtight container in the fridge or freezer until you're ready to enjoy. Pack into small Ziploc bags for use on the trail.

On the Trail: Combine one cup chili with one cup water and let sit for about five minutes. If you are cooking a larger serving, just add an equal part of water to your dried chili. Light stove, bring to a boil. Simmer for ten minutes. Garnish with crackers or cheddar cheese.

Pumpkin Pie Bark

Pumpkin pie bark makes a chewy and nutritious trail snack or turns into no-crust pumpkin pie or pudding with the addition of water.

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
-----	-----	-----
1	15 oz. can	Pumpkin
1/4	cup	Real maple syrup
1/2	cup	Powdered milk (Nestle Nido) dissolved in 6 ounces of water
2	tsp	Pumpkin pie spice
1/2	cup	Brown sugar

1/2	tsp	Salt

At Home: Combine pumpkin with maple syrup and pumpkin pie spice. Use real maple syrup for best results. Stir until ingredients are mixed well. Spread thinly (about eighth inch) on the fruit leather inserts that go with your dehydrator. Dehydrate at 135° for eight hours until brittle. After about five hours, flip the bark over as follows: Place a spare dehydrator tray on top of the Bark and flip the two trays over so that the bottom side of the bark is now facing up. This will ensure complete drying. One 15 ounce can of pumpkin dehydrates down to 1 1/2 cups weighing four ounces.

2	lb.	Sweet potatoes, canned
1	cup	Apple juice
2	Tbsp.	Maple syrup
2	tsp	Cinnamon
Glazed Pecan Sauce
2	tsp	Corn starch
4	tsp	Brown sugar
1/2	cup	Pecan pieces
1	cup	Water

At Home: Using canned sweet potatoes, put chunked potatoes into a blender with apple juice, maple syrup, and cinnamon. Blend until smooth. One pound of cooked sweet potatoes yields two cups blended mixture. One cup is the ideal quantity to spread thinly on each tray. Dehydrate at 135° F for eight to ten hours. Powder the dried bark by running it through a blender. Powdering reduces volume and slightly speeds up rehydration. One cup of wet blended sweet potatoes yields 3/4 cup bark, or 1/3 cup powder.

Sweet Potato Pudding on the Trail: Combine 2/3 cup powder, with 3 cups water. Gently heat while stirring continuously until pudding is hot. It will thicken within two minutes.

Glazed Pecan Sauce on the Trail: Combine corn starch and brown sugar with half a cup of cool water. Stir until corn starch dissolves. Do not add corn starch to hot water, because it will form clumps. Add a quarter cup of pecan pieces and light stove. Bring mixture to a light boil and let it bubble for a minute. It will thicken and turn a nice shade of brown.

Split biscuit in half, spoon strawberry mixture over biscuit and top with whipped topping.

Add the zucchini and bring to a gentle boil, lower heat and simmer for 30 minutes, until cubes are fork tender and translucent. Drain in a colander, spread on mesh lined dehydrator trays. Dry for 8 to 12 hours at 135°, until no longer moist but still flexible (not tacky or sticky). Let cool on trays for a few hours. Freeze for long-term storage, otherwise eat within a few days.

On the Trail: To use for soup, combine 1/3 cup mix and 1-1/2 cup water. Bring to a boil while stirring often. Add 1/4 cup of a dried vegetable for more flavor, such as diced celery for cream of celery soup, sliced mushrooms for cream of mushroom soup, or diced broccoli (for cream of broccoli soup). To use for any recipe calling for a can of cream of mushroom, chicken or celery soup can be replaced with 1/3 cup mix and 1-1/4 cup water. Boil for a few minutes, stirring often.

Pizza Sauce from Tomato Powder

Servings: 3 (enough for 2-12" pizzas)

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
1/4	cup	Tomato powder
1/2	Tbsp.	Italian seasoning
1/4	tsp.	Garlic powder
1/4	tsp.	Onion powder
1/4	tsp.	Black pepper
1/4	tsp.	Salt
1	pinch	Ground red pepper

Mix up to 3/4 cup warm water with the ingredients (use less water for thicker sauce). Stir until it's nice and smooth.

Spaghetti Sauce

Servings: 8

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
1	32 oz. jar	Spaghetti sauce

At Home: Spread the spaghetti sauce on a solid sheet. Dry at 135° F until the consistency of a fruit roll-up. Put it in a Ziploc freezer bag. Store in the freezer until you leave.

On the Trail: Add the dried sauce to water and simmer and stir until reconstituted.

Tomato Sauce from Tomato Powder

6 Tbsp. Tomato Powder

1/8 tsp. salt

1/4 tsp. onion powder

1/4 tsp. garlic powder

3/4 Cup + 2 Tbsp. water

At Home: Place all of the ingredients except for the water in a small Ziploc bag.

On the Trail: Heat water until almost boiling. In a small bowl combine the tomato powder, salt, onion powder and garlic powder. Pour hot water over powder mixture and stir until thoroughly dissolved. Use in place of an 8-oz. can of tomato sauce in any recipe.

Trail Baking Techniques

Have you ever wished you could have a hot biscuit or muffin in the morning but not carry a ton of weight or a huge pot? You can!

Smooth out a new windscreen and lay your kettle on top. Trace the shape and then, using scissors, cut it out. Trim it down a bit so that it will fit in your pot, about 1/4" smaller than the inside of the pot. You want it so you can drop it into the pot.

Using a ruler trace a grid of 1/2" squares on it. Use a tiny Phillips head screwdriver or awl to do this. All you have to do is gently drag the screwdriver or awl on the metal to leave a light line. Find a scrap piece of wood to set your circle on top of. Use the screwdriver to punch a hole carefully at the intersection of each square on the grid and also in the center of each square.

Cut another piece of the metal about 14" long and 1" wide (longer if it is for a pot bigger than the cup shown above). This is what sits at the bottom of the pan, and is spiraled, to hold the circle up off of the bottom.

When ready to start baking, put the spiral in the pan. Put water in until it is almost to the top of the spiral. Top with the circle. Put the pan on your stove and bring it to a boil. As soon it is boiling lower the stove heat to where it is barely burning, place your item to be baked on the disc (see the following recipes), and put the lid on the pan. Start the timer for 15 minutes. With the low amount of water in the pan it will continue to gently simmer/boil and conserve fuel use. When the time is up, turn the stove off and let it sit for 5 minutes.

Do not take the lid off of the pan while cooking items that raise (biscuits, cakes, etc.) as the cold air can cause the items to flop. 15 minutes seems perfect for cooking time, along with a 5 minute rest. While the items don't get browned, they will be perfectly cooked through, moist and tender as well! The weight of the materials (not counting your pot) is less than 1/4 of an ounce.

Backpacking Stove Pot Support Stand

One of the main problems cooking with most backpacking stoves is the small base upon which the pot sets. If you are not careful, supper can slide off of the stove and spill on the ground. This is a real bummer at the end of a long hard day of hiking. You can reduce this problem with extra support for the pot with a pot stand cut out of 1/2" x 1/2" hardware cloth (Fig. 1). Hardware cloth is strong enough to support a pot, but weighs next to nothing. The following instructions are for a MSR Whisperlite stove (older model). Please check that it works with your model. This design can be modified to work with many other stoves.

Fig. 1: Whisperlite stove and 1/2" x 1/2" hardware cloth pot support shown without windscreen

Tools and Supplies Needed:

Wire cutters

Coarse sand paper or metal file to smooth wire ends

Scissors

1/2" x 1/2" hardware cloth (sold in hardware stores)

Aluminum windscreen material or aluminum pie pan

Cut the hardware cloth to the desired height and length for your pots and stove with the wire cutters. Cut a strip of 1/2" x 1/2" hardware cloth 7 squares high by 44 squares long. This works well for the Whisperlite stove and keeps the pot close enough to the stove for good heat transfer. If you are using the newer Whisperlite International stove, the hardware cloth will need to be 7 squares high by 48 squares long. You will also be able to nest the pot support inside of your pot when packing. File or sand the cut ends to smooth them out.

Using an aluminum windscreen or aluminum pie pan and scissors, cut seven 1" x 3/8" strips. Bend the hardware cloth into a circle and fasten the ends together by wrapping the 1" x 3/8" strips of aluminum windscreen material around the corresponding wires. Wrap the aluminum strips tightly around both wires until it is all used. The eraser end of a pencil is useful for pushing the aluminum strips through the squares. Now you have a flexible but strong joint holding your pot support together (Fig. 2).

Fig. 2: Aluminum strips wrapped tightly around the ends makes a strong hinge.

With the wire cutters, cut a notch in the bottom of the pot stand to allow the Whisperlite stove fuel line to pass through (Fig. 3 and Fig. 4).

Estimating Quantities of Food

Use these guidelines to determine how much food you'll need. Where normal caloric requirements may be between approximately 2,000 and 2,800 Calories/day/person, the energy requirements for a strenuous or high adventure trip are 3,000 - 5,000 Calories/day/person and winter treks require 1,000 MORE Calories/day than summer treks. This translates to about 2 - 2.5 lbs. of (lightweight) food per day per person, and the food should be nutritionally balanced at about 50% carbohydrates, 25% fats and 25% protein.

Nutrition

Carbohydrates are easily digested and release energy in minutes, but their energy is rapidly consumed. During cold, wet weather it is important to continuously stoke up with carbohydrates and it is recommended that you eat lunch "from breakfast to dinner" or snack frequently on carbohydrates during the day. Carbohydrates come from starches (potatoes, rice, pasta), cereals, fruit, nuts (trail mix or gorp!), honey and candy (esp. hard candy).

Protein is more difficult to digest and the energy boost takes longer to take effect. High protein foods should be taken in small amounts during the day and concentrated at the evening meal so energy is available for "body repair" and generating body heat while you sleep. Meat is high in protein and are particularly recommended for winter camping. Jerky is a great trail snack for late in the day as you set up camp. Foods high in protein (other than meats) include instant milk (add to your instant oatmeal, which also has protein, and to your hot cocoa and packaged pasta mix), nuts (peanut butter), and cheese.

Fats produce energy that is consumed by the body over comparatively long periods and have over twice the energy of proteins. Carbohydrates and protein-rich foods tend to be more light-weight than fatty foods, but the fats are essential to keep your metabolism running high in the cold weather. Fats, like proteins, are harder to digest, so they should be consumed in small quantities during the day and most of the daily fat intake should be concentrated in the dinner menu.

Yeah, not very appetizing, is it?
Just close your eyes and eat: It's not that bad...

Dehydrating Food

Are you ready to transform the way you eat on the trail? Start dehydrating food and amaze yourself and friends with your culinary creations. With a food dehydrator and these backpacking recipes, you will make the healthiest, most delicious homemade backpacking meals, trail snacks and desserts.

Why Dehydrate Your Own Backpacking Food?

Dehydrating food saves money. If you're in a hurry to get on the trail, you may gladly pay the higher prices of freeze-dried meals, but if you can plan ahead, you'll save money drying your own meals. Each home dehydrated backpacking meal cooks up for about 30% of the cost of a commercial freeze-dried meal such as from Mountain House.

Save space in the backpack. Home-dehydrated meals takes up half the space of store-bought freeze-dried meals so you can carry a week's supply of backpacking food without hiring a Sherpa.

More veggies, please! Freeze-dried backpacking meals are always light on veggies and heavy on starches. We need starches for energy, but veggies add flavor, texture, and fiber too. With a small amount of home preparation, include healthy portions of colorful, vitamin-rich vegetables in all of your backpacking meals.

Keep out unwanted ingredients. Manufacturers of dried meats and fruits douse their products with preservatives, artificial colors, and flavors. Even Quaker Instant Oatmeal slips you fake strawberries and blueberries with the magic of Red 40 and Blue 2. Flavored rice and noodle products from the grocery store often contain MSG, excessive salt, partially hydrogenated oils, and ingredients that would be easier to pronounce if you had paid attention during chemistry class. Free yourself from chemically engineered food by dehydrating food from Mother Nature and you'll feel well-nourished and healthy on the trail.

Prepare the right size meals. No one wants to get hungry on the trail, and no one wants to pack out leftovers. Only you know how much food you need. You can easily adjust the quantities up or down to suit your appetite.

Delicious, homemade taste. Enough said.

Choosing a Food Dehydrator

Important Food Dehydrator Features:

Fan

You will grow a beard waiting for bananas to dry if you buy a cheap food dehydrator without a fan. Some banana slices may dry like poker chips while others remain moist. Making bark or fruit leather is nearly impossible without a fan.

Adjustable Temperature Settings

Different foods require different temperatures. Excalibur Dehydrators have a range of 105° F to 165° F. (40° to 74° C). Meat is dried at the high end while herbs are dried at the low end. Vegetables and fruits are dried in the 125° to 135° range. One temperature fits all is not a good strategy for drying food.

Timer with Automatic Shut off

This optional convenient feature lets you put a load of food in the dehydrator and then go to bed or work. The dehydrator shuts itself off when you tell it to. Another use for a timer is to set the dehydrator to shut off before a food is all the way dry. You can do this when you want to flip bark or fruit leather over after it is about ¾ dry. You can also dry foods with different drying times at the same time. By setting the timer to shut the dehydrator off when you expect one food to be dry, you can then turn it back on to finish the other food without over drying the first... Most dehydrators do not have a timer with automatic shut off.

Top or Back Mounted Heating Element and Fan

Drippings and crumbs can cause dehydrators with bottom-mounted heating elements to malfunction or fail. Care must be used when operating and cleaning a dehydrator with a bottom-mounted heater and fan.

Mesh Sheets

Mesh sheets are necessary for drying small vegetables like peas and corn. Mesh sheets are pliable, so they also make it easier to pop off fruits like bananas which tend to stick to plastic when dried.

The Nesco tray structures have wide spaces so small items will fall through without mesh sheets. You have to purchase them separately for Nesco Dehydrators, although a few models include one sample mesh sheet.

Non-stick Sheets

All dehydrators require the purchase of non-stick sheets or fruit leather trays if you want to dry blended food like mashed potatoes, tomato sauce, and fruit purees. Some models come with a sample. Non-stick sheets are reusable and work better than parchment paper. Never use wax paper. It melts.

Expandability

Extra stacking trays can be purchased to increase the capacity of dehydrators. Adding too many extra trays may affect the drying consistency of the unit. Temperatures may be higher at the top than at the bottom.

Learn How to Dehydrate Food

Several food drying techniques are discussed below.

Dehydrating Meat: Ground Beef

Use only lean or extra lean ground meat. Meat with high fat content produces beads of oil as it dehydrates which you have to blot off throughout the dehydration process. Also, fatty meats may spoil on the trail, so stick with the skinny stuff. Pork is not recommended for dehydrating, with the exception of lean ham, because of its high fat content. Check the labels for ground beef and shoot for a fat content of 15% or less, even though it costs a little more. Ground beef with 15% fat content is often labeled as Ground Round. Ground Chuck and Hamburger will have higher fat content.

Servings: 8

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
1	lb.	Hamburg, extra lean
1	Tbsp.	Flour
1/2	tsp	Garlic powder
1/2	tsp	Onion powder
1/2	tsp	Salt
1/2	tsp	Black pepper
	Optional
1/2	cup	Bread crumbs, finely ground

Brown the hamburger. Stir well to crumble things up. Cook until it's almost done. Drain off the grease. Add the garlic powder, flour, onion powder, salt, and pepper. Cook another minute or two. Remove from heat. Put everything on a solid sheet and dry at 135° for six hours. Pat remaining grease with a paper towel and put in a Ziploc bag. Rehydrate by soaking in water for 1/2 hour and then add to the meal you are cooking.

Backpackers often call dehydrated ground beef “gravel” because it doesn’t rehydrate well. Solve this problem by adding bread crumbs to the meat before cooking it. Bread crumbs allow more liquid to penetrate the dried meat when you rehydrate it, so it turns out tender every time. For each pound of beef, sprinkle 1/2 cup of finely ground bread crumbs over the meat. Work the bread crumbs into the raw meat with your fingers. Cook and then dehydrate as discussed above.

Note: If you are drying meat for long term storage over one year, omit the bread crumbs. The bread crumbs retain some of the fat from the meat. The dried meat will not rehydrate as well, but can be added to soups that simmer longer than a backpacking meal.

Dehydrating Meat: Poultry

Ground turkey or chicken breast is naturally low in fat. You can purchase 98% fat free ground breast meat. Adding breadcrumbs to ground poultry before you cook and dehydrate it results in meat that rehydrates well in meals. The meat retains a pleasant chewiness; you won't have to suffer through extremely tough meat like you will if the breadcrumbs are left out.

Servings: 8

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
1	lb.	Ground breast meat
1/2	cup	Bread crumbs, finely ground
1/2	tsp	Garlic powder
1/2	tsp	Onion powder
1/2	tsp	Salt
1/2	tsp	Black pepper
1/4	tsp	Ground cumin

Work the breadcrumbs and seasoning into the meat a little at a time with your fingers. Form the meat into a ball, set aside for a few minutes, and then pull the meat apart into small pieces. Before you cook the meat on the stove, preheat oven to 350° F. Lightly oil a non-stick pan with one teaspoon of cooking oil. Add all meat at the same time, and fry on medium-high for five to six minutes – until the meat is no longer pink. Stir and flip meat continuously with spatula, chopping any larger pieces in half. Some of the meat will brown lightly, which is a desirable trait.

Transfer fried meat to a glass or ceramic baking dish, and place in preheated oven at 350° for ten minutes. After ten minutes, turn off oven, but leave meat in there for another ten minutes. Don't let any heat out by opening the oven door. After the total of twenty minutes in the oven, remove meat and allow it to cool.

Once cool enough to handle, spread the cooked meat out on dehydrator trays. Tear any larger pieces into smaller pieces. Dehydrate for approximately six hours at 135° F. Since the meat has been thoroughly cooked at a high temperature, there is no need to dehydrate at 160° F. In fact, that can lead to case-hardening, where the outside of the meat dries and hardens while the inside stays moist.

Dehydrating Meat: Sliced Ham

Choose lean precooked ham with fat content less than 10%. Deli ham sliced for sandwiches, about 1/16 of an inch thick, is good for dehydrating. Cut ham into 3/4" to 1" wide squares and place on dehydrator trays. Dry at 145° for approximately six hours.

Blot off oil droplets that form on the surface of the meat with paper towels a couple of times while drying.

Best Ever Beef Jerky Recipe

Amount	Measure	Ingredient -- Preparation Method
5	lb.	Brisket, lean
2	cups	Kikkoman soy sauce
2	cups	Worcestershire sauce
2	cups	Thick, flavorful teriyaki sauce
1	cup	Liquid smoke
1/2	cup	Karo dark corn syrup
3	Tbsp.	Sesame seeds
3	Tbsp.	Garlic powder
3	Tbsp.	Onion powder
3	Tbsp.	Brown sugar
1	tsp	Cayenne pepper

Put the meat in the freezer for an hour to make slicing easier. Slice meat with the grain as thin as possible (less than 0.6 cm or 1/4"). If you're lazy or not great with the knife, call the butcher ahead of time and ask him to slice 5 lb. of lean brisket at this thickness. The leaner the meat is, the better and longer-lasting the jerky.

In a large container, mix the soy sauce, Worcestershire sauce, teriyaki sauce, liquid smoke, and dark corn syrup. Add the garlic powder, onion powder, sesame seeds, brown sugar, and cayenne pepper. Add more if you like it spicy, but a little goes a long way. Stir well, and then drop your meat into the marinade. Your meat should be fully submerged. Close or cover the container(s), then leave in the refrigerator for at least 24 hours.

Once the meat is well marinated, it's time to dry it: Cover the bottom of your oven with aluminum foil. Things will get messy. Place the meat on the racks of your dehydrator, one next to the other. Set your oven temperature to 160°F.

Let it dry for 3 hours, and then turn over the jerky. After another 3 hours, it should be done. The total time, however, is dependent on the thickness of the meat and the temperature of the oven. The jerky is done when it's dry enough that you can rip off a piece easily, but before it snaps when you bend it.

Leave meat out in the air to cool. It is now ready to eat. The longer you leave it out to cool, the drier it will get. After no longer than 24 hours, store it in sealed Ziploc bags. Without refrigeration, it will be good for 4–6 months.

Cooking and Dehydrating Pasta

2 Reasons to Precook and Dehydrate Pasta

1. A large portion of pasta cooked in one pot requires less fuel and time to cook on the trail when it has already been precooked and dried.
2. If you want to rehydrate macaroni with cold water, such as for a no-cook lunch of macaroni salad, you will only succeed if you precook and dry it. Allow enough time on the trail for it to rehydrate.

For each cup of pasta (approximately 100 grams) to be cooked, add one teaspoon of salt to a quart of water and bring it to a rapid boil. Add the pasta and reduce heat to maintain a gentle boil. Slightly undercook the pasta. If the instructions on the box say to boil the pasta for eight to twelve minutes, strain off the water at seven minutes. Immediately rinse the pasta two times in cold water. That stops the cooking and ensures that the pasta will not stick together on the dehydrator tray. Spread the cooked pasta out on dehydrator trays in one layer. There is no need to use a non-stick sheet, as that would only slow down dehydration. Set the dehydrator thermostat at 135° F and the pasta should be dry in about four hours.

How Much Water Should Be Used to Rehydrate Pasta?

1/2 cup dried pasta requires 1/4 cup of water to rehydrate.

Cold Water Rehydration

The same pasta and water quantities as listed above (1/2 cup pasta and 1/4 cup water) requires two hours to rehydrate.

Dehydrating Vegetables

Dehydrating vegetables at home is the easy way to nourish your body on the trail. In addition to providing necessary vitamins, minerals, fiber, and complex carbohydrates, veggies brighten your backpacking meals with color and flavor. Beef and rice is okay, but it's not a real meal until you add dark green broccoli, a medley of corn, carrots, peas, and green beans, or some peppers-- red, yellow, orange, and green peppers.

There is no need to cook a vegetable before drying if it is one that you would eat raw in a salad such as pepper, tomato, mushroom or onion. All you have to do is clean, cut uniformly and spread in a single layer on dehydrator trays. You can go either way with carrots, but steaming them will turn them a nice dark orange when dried.

A vegetable that you would normally cook before eating such as corn, peas, broccoli and green beans will usually rehydrate better and make them more digestible in trail meals if you steam them for eight minutes before drying.

If you don't have any fresh produce on hand, use frozen produce. Most grocery stores carry a variety of frozen vegetables and vegetable mixes. Frozen vegetables from the store dehydrate well because they are already uniformly cut, saving you prep time in the kitchen. Avoid drying mixed vegetables with lima beans because they rehydrate poorly.

Classic Mixed Vegetables: (corn, carrots, peas, green beans):

- Steam the vegetables for 8 minutes before placing on the dehydrator trays in a single layer, Dehydrate at 125° for approximately six hours. A one pound package weighs approximately three ounces when dry and amounts to just under one cup.

Pepper Medley:

- Green peppers are the workhorses of the pepper family, but the yellow, orange, and red cousins add color to backpacking feasts. Peppers combine well with beef, beans, or shrimp and make themselves at home in pasta, rice, couscous, and grits.
- Cut fresh peppers into 1/2" pieces, trimming away the white fleshy part on the inside. Raw peppers retain their color better than cooked peppers, so don't bother cooking them before dehydrating.
- Place cut peppers on dehydrator trays in single layers and dehydrate at 125° for approximately six hours.

Onions:

- The favorite onions for dehydrating are Vidalia Onions from South Georgia because of their sweet and mild flavor.
- You can achieve more complete and faster drying times when the onions are diced.
- Spread out in a single layer on the dehydrator trays and dehydrate at 145° for two hours and reduce to 135° for approximately six hours or until pliable.
- Onions can smell pretty strong when dehydrating, so you might want to open a window or set up the dehydrator on the front porch.

Broccoli:

- A nutritional power food, broccoli supercharges many of backpacking meals with extra vitamins, fiber, and minerals.
- After washing and soaking the broccoli for ten minutes in salt water to remove any contaminants, rinse and cut the florets into 1/2" bouquets and the stems into small pieces 1/2" or smaller.
- Steam the broccoli for about five minutes to break down the fibrous walls of the stems and to bring out the dark green color. Broccoli dehydrates best when firm, not mushy.
- Dehydrate at 125° for approximately eight hours. Dehydrated broccoli will be brittle when done.

Mushrooms:

- Use a variety of mushroom for your backpacking recipes.
- Thoroughly wash all the dirt off in cold water and cut into 1/8 inch slices.
- Place pieces on the dehydrator tray in a single layer and dehydrate at 125° for six to eight hours until leathery.
- An eight ounce package will weigh less than an ounce when dry and amount to one cup.

Tomatoes:

- Cut tomatoes into 1/8 inch slices using a sharp knife and place in a single layer on the dehydrator trays sprinkled with a little salt.
- Tomatoes can also be diced depending on how you like them and how you plan to use them.

- Dehydrate at 145° for two hours and reduce to 135° for approximately six more hours until pliable.

Carrots:

- When dehydrating carrots for snacking or for use in dried salads, peel large carrots and cut into 1/8 inch slices.
- Dehydrating sliced baby carrots will result in very small dried carrot pieces.
- That's fine for cooked recipes, but for snacking you'll want larger pieces you can grab with your fingers.
- Dehydrate at 125° for approximately six to ten hours or until leathery.

Dehydrating Fruit

Dehydrating fruit is easy and fun. Cut the fruit into small, equal-sized pieces; spread in a single layer on the dehydrator trays, and crank up the dehydrator. It takes from 6 to 36 hours to dry fruit, depending on the juiciness of the fruit, but the wait is worth it when you taste the final product.

Dehydrating fruit concentrates the natural sugars so your pineapples and bananas will taste extra sweet on the trail. Choose mature, firm fruits for the highest sugar and nutritional content, but avoid bruised or overripe fruit. When dehydrating fruits such as apples with the skins on, thoroughly wash and rinse the fruit to remove any wax and pesticides.

On the trail, you'll maintain peak energy by snacking on dried fruit throughout the day. There are simple ways to incorporate dehydrated fruit into your breakfasts, desserts, and trail mixes. Try cooking oatmeal with dried apples, raisins, and cinnamon, topped with crunchy granola for a quick-energy breakfast.

The range of drying times listed below for dehydrating fruit are what you could expect using most food dehydrators. Factors such as humidity, the size and thickness of your fruit pieces, and the juiciness can all affect how fast fruit dries. Most fruit will be pliable or leathery when done, meaning you can bend it and it won't break. You can easily tear a piece of dried fruit in half and if no moisture beads up on the inside and there is no stickiness on the outside, it's done.

Bananas:

- Choose yellow bananas with some brown speckles on the peel for maximum sweetness.
- Peel the bananas and cut into 1/8" slices.
- Dehydrate at 135° until leathery and the banana slices do not stick together. (8 – 12 hours)

Apples:

- Thoroughly wash apples and peel off the skin.
- You can core and slice apples into rings or cut them into whatever size pieces you like. Whichever you choose, make sure you cut the apple into slices no thicker than 1/8".
- Dehydrate at 135° until pliable (8 – 12 hours).
- Because the flesh of apples turns a little brown when exposed to air (oxidation), some people dip their cut apples into a bath of water and sodium bisulfate or ascorbic acid for a couple of minutes before dehydrating. Treating apples with either of these anti-oxidants is safe and will prevent the fruit from browning.

Pineapples:

- Remove the fibrous skin and core. You can cut up a pineapple any way you like, such as into 1/4" thick rings, but it is easier to cut the pineapple into 3/4" thick rings first and then slice the rings cross-wise into thinner 1/8" pieces. The smaller pieces dry faster than larger chunks or rings and are the perfect size to use in recipes and trail mixes.
- Dehydrate at 135° until pliable (12 – 18 hours). If you are dehydrating canned pineapple, it will take up to twice as long because of the extra juices.

Peaches:

- Thoroughly wash peaches to remove any pesticides if you plan to dehydrate with the skins on.
- The skin can be easily removed by dipping the peaches in boiling water for one minute and then dipping in cold water. The skins will come right off.
- Cut the peaches in half, remove the pit, and then cut the halves into 1/8" slices. There is no absolute right or wrong way to slice and dice your fruit. Peel and slice one peach at a time to minimize browning.

- Dehydrate at 135° until pliable (8 – 12 hours).

Cherries:

- Wash the cherries and remove the stems
- Cut the cherries in half, remove the pit, and then cut the halves in two.
- Place cherries on the dehydrator tray with the skin side down and begin dehydrating at 145° for two hours. Reduce temperature to 135° and dehydrate until leathery (12 – 15 hours).
- Dehydrated cherries feel like raisins in your mouth.

Mangos:

- Remove the skin with a sharp knife and try to slice large chunks away from the pit. This is tricky because it's hard to tell exactly how the large, flat pit is oriented inside the flesh. Cut whatever size chunks you end up with into 1/8 inch thick slices.
- Spread in a single layer on the dehydrator tray and begin dehydrating at 145° for two hours and then reduce the temperature to 135° until pliable (8 – 12 hours depending on the juiciness of the mangos you are working with).

Blueberries:

- Wash blueberries and remove the stems.
- Place blueberries in a colander and dip in boiling water for 15 to 30 seconds to check the skins.
- Cut the berries in half before dehydrating. Place the berries in a single layer on the dehydrator tray with the skin side down. Your blueberries will turn out crispier using this method.
- Dehydrate at 125° until leathery (12 – 18 hours).

Strawberries:

- Wash strawberries and cut off the leafy crown.
- Cut into 1/8 to 1/4 inch slices.
- Place sliced strawberries in a single layer on the dehydrator tray and dehydrate at 135° until leathery and crisp (8 – 12 hours).

Dehydrating vs. Freeze-Drying Backpacking Meals

Shelf Life:

There's a common misconception that "dehydrated food" and "freeze-dried food" are the same; they are not. Dehydration removes about 70% of the water. In this situation, the food is only good for a few months. Freeze drying removes 99% of the water. Most home dehydrated products like dried fruit, meat, and vegetables have a shelf life of 1 year or less. Those same foods preserved with a freeze dryer can have a 25-year shelf life.

Nutrition:

Freeze-dried foods retain 95-98% of the vitamins and minerals found in their original state because of the sublimation process that is used to extract the water. The nutritional value of dehydrated food is generally around 60% of equivalent fresh food. This loss is largely due to the heat used during dehydration which breaks down the food's vitamins and minerals.

Taste:

Let's be honest – it all comes down to taste, and that's the thing that can make all the difference. No one likes eating backpacking meals that taste like cardboard. Therefore, it is vital for the original flavor to stay untouched. The good thing is that both of the methods we're comparing here are more than capable of preserving the food's original flavor. However, as we've explained above, they are still quite different from each other and one of them is better at keeping the flavor at the same level as before. Freeze-dried backpacking meals are a clear winner in this category due to the fact that they're prepared with little heat. When freeze-dried food is rehydrated and ready to eat, it will taste the same as if you had just made the dinner.

Dehydration, on the other hand, removes the water from food by using a lot of heat, which, in turn, affects its smell and taste. Dehydrated vegetables can be harder on your stomach to digest if they don't fully hydrate, and they can be chewy at times.

Variety:

Another great argument for freeze drying is variety. Almost any food can be freeze dried for preservation and food storage. Meats, fruits, vegetables, desserts—even full meals. A far greater variety of foods can be freeze dried than can be dehydrated. Imagine trying to use a home dehydrator to preserve an ice cream sandwich, a raw egg, or cheese. It would fail miserably. Not so if freeze dried.

Rehydration time:

Freeze-dried foods rehydrate more quickly, usually in 5 minutes or less, using hot or cold water. Dehydrated foods usually take 10-20 minutes to rehydrate, provided you use boiling water, requiring a longer wait and more stove fuel, both, which are problems for hungry backpackers!

Weight:

Freeze-dried foods are lighter than dehydrated foods due to more water being removed. This is especially important when backpacking.

Space Savings:

Many food items are considerably smaller after dehydration. Some items will be up to 90% smaller. It tends to be very flat and/or shriveled in texture. It won't look like it did when fresh. Although dehydrated food may have a shriveled appearance, it will plump up when added to boiling water for at least 10-20 minutes. Freeze-drying keeps the food's original look and is lighter in weight due to no moisture. However, it will take up more space in meal packets and in your bear canister.

Cost:

Freeze-drying requires expensive equipment (~$2300). Dehydrators, on the other hand, are a much lower cost option (~$75-$125). This provides backpackers with a low-cost option for compacting and preserving their food.

The Verdict:

In summary, freeze-dried backpacking meals beat dehydrated food in most categories. They stay edible for a longer time, they keep more of the food's original nutritional value and taste, and they're significantly lighter with faster rehydration times.

However, that doesn't mean that dehydrated backpacking meals should be discarded altogether. The biggest advantages of opting for dehydrated food for your backcountry trips are cost and space.

Consider the differences listed above as well as the advantages and disadvantages of each option for your situation and budget before making the ultimate decision.

Packing Foods for Backpacking

Repackage ingredients and meals into Ziploc freezer bags which are more durable than regular bags. This will minimize space and weight. Cut off the instructions and include it with the meal ingredients. Ziploc bags can be re-used while on the trail to organize necessities, trash, or to keep items dry and clean.

Label each Ziploc bag. Write down the meal name, amount of water to add, simmer time, or any other specific cooking instructions. Write it on the bag itself, or on a small slip of paper that you can insert inside the bag.

Group all ingredients by meals and put into larger (gallon size) Ziploc bags. Double bag powdered milk and other powdered drinks. You can put the instructions from the original packing between the bags. Be careful not to over pack on food! Remember, we can survive several days without food, but drinking water is critical. If you run out of water, do not eat. Your body requires extra water to digest food. Plan 1.5 – 2 lbs. of total food (including snacks) per person per day.

Rehydration Chart

Dehydrated Vegetables

Dehydrated vegetables maintain a high level of their nutritive value and can be used in a variety of recipes. To rehydrate vegetables, combine 1 part vegetable with 2 parts water. Then, simmer for about 10-15 minutes, or soak for 1-2 hours. It is not necessary to rehydrate vegetables prior to using them in a recipe that requires cooking.
