

Calculate Wind Chill

Through a process called convection, wind carries heat away from your skin, making the air temperature feel colder than it actually is. Use this chart to determine the windchill at a specific wind speed and air temperature. The color-coding tells you how quickly exposed skin would develop frostbite.

